

COURT WATCH OF NORTH CAROLINA IS OFFERING

Two Families Now Parenting Class Meets the Guilford County District Court Parenting Course Requirement!

This 4-hour class is designed to meet the needs of parents who are raising children in separate households, whether those parents are still married, are separated or divorced, or were never married. It is also appropriate for grandparents, step-parents and other caregivers. Participants will leave the class with increased knowledge of developmental factors that affect children.

What you'll learn:

- How to help your children adjust during separation and divorce
- How to reduce co-parenting conflict
- About different co-parenting styles
- The parenting skills that buffer children from risk
- What to include in a parenting plan
- How mediation can help you create a parenting plan

Two Families Now is guided by a mental health professional and contains important information for your family, including videos demonstrations of right/wrong way interactions. This engaging class focuses on useful ideas—not theory!

“The information was great. Two Families Now showed us examples of how to put these plans in action and also to see things from another perspective. I really liked the program and even recommended it to my co-parent. I think all divorced couples should be mandated to take this program.”
